Got farm labor problems? If you need help, why not contact George Jackson, Jr., Virginia Employment Commission, Lynchburg, Virginia. George tells me that he has a listing of persons seeking jobs on the farm. He can give you the details.

There must be money in stolen farm equipment, because we frequently read about such loses in the newspaper.

Before the rush of spring work begins; why not make a list of all equipment by serial numbers, make and model number and store in a safe place.

It's also a good idea to mark all equipment with one of the inexpensive electric markers. Your Social Security Number is a useful means of identification. Do this even on equipment that has serial numbers because they can be filed off.

With warm weather, you'll need to frequently check grain bins for condensation of moisture on the inside upper bin walls. Aerate to prevent spoilage.

Horace Coleman and Ed Anderson will be attending the Beef Cattlemen's Shortcourse at Virginia Tech later this month.

Don't forget the Tobacco Farm Equipment and Services Exposition at the Virginia-Carolina Warehouse, Clarksville, Virginia, on March 10 and 11. Plan to attend!

Dr. Craig Turner, Research Entomologist at Virginia Tech, says if this warm weather continues, we can expect an unusually high housefly population by late summer. You'll need to initiate preventive measures early this year if controls are satisfactory.

If you have cattle, have you noticed the build-up of cattle lice?

There would be a net savings of 600 million gallons of gasoline per year in the U.S. if all gasoline farm equipment was converted to diesel power.

A small group of Appomattox Cattlemen attended an outstanding Forage Conference at the Southern Piedmont Research Station last Thursday.

Beef cattle on an all-fescue program will cause fall calves to wean 40 pounds lighter and spring calves 60 pounds lighter. Cattlemen will need to consider this in developing forage programs.

Beef cows require simple rations of low quality feed, but the calves require high quality feed. One answer is creep grazing orchard grass - - clover or alfalfa - - grass mixtures.

"My daddy taught me two things. Milk a cow from the right, and save at Lynchburg Federal. Now Lynchburg Federal's up and changed to American Federal. I sure hope Bossie doesn't get any big ideas."

What's the big idea behind our name change? Well, it's simple. Lynchburg Federal has grown to cover a lot more than Lynchburg. And, besides, the nation's 200th birthday seemed like a nice time for us to go American. But some things you don't tamper with. Our savings rates are as friendly as ever and so are our people. So come see us. If anything, we're a little friendlier now that we're making a new name for ourselves.

DE Advisory Council Holds First Meeting

On Monday evening, March 6, the Advisory Council for Distributive Education at Appomattox County High School held its first meeting. The purpose of the Advisory Council is to assist in the further development and improvement of Distributive Education at the high school through various activities.

Members of the Advisory Council are selected from local distributive businesses and come from both management and employees positions. They are selected with consideration given to their experience in marketing and distribution, amount of time available, moral character.

The council consists of four members currently, with the fifth member to be appointed by the June meeting. Those serving on the DE advisory council are Rosa Mae Abbit, owner and operator of Appomattox Beauty Shop; Carole Abernathy, owner and operator of Carole's Fashions; Allen Austin, employed by the Times-Virginian; and James Roach, manager of King's Market. Jack Hutcheson, DE Coordinator serves as an ex-officio member.

At the Monday meeting, the council members heard Mr. Hutcheson explain the Distributive Education program and the purposes of DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) at ACHS. In a general discussion session members talked about the need for more training stations and possible adult education courses to be offered. The election of a chairperson was postponed until the June 14 meeting to allow the as-yet-named fifth council member a vote.
